myhandPC is personal

Perfect on a keychain, myhandPC keeps your desktop and the contents of your computer at your fingertips. Whether it's an executive presentation, family photos, or MP3 files, myhandPC carries it all.

myhandPC is secure

Advanced security features, including password protection authentication, ensure that your information is secure if myhandPC is ever lost or stolen.

Store Any Kind of Information or Files

Do you have the latest version of that business presentation with you--the one with all the graphics, that takes up 25M? Are you sure it's the latest version? With myhandPC, you have the storage capacity to hold 256M with future possibilities of even 1G or more of data. (current system configured for 256M) So load up all your files! Need to bring along large, high-resolution images? A large database? Or even a bunch of MP3 music files? No problem!

With myhandPC, you'll be able to take it all with you. But storage space is only the beginning of the story: you can rest assured that the files stored on your myhandPC are the most recent and up-to-date version. Thanks to myhandPC's software, called PocketLogin, you can synchronize all your files at the touch of a button. Just plug your myhandPC into your computer, and PocketLogin makes sure that every file you need is the most recent version—on both your computer and myhandPC!

Work with Your Desktop Files

We all have our own particular way of setting up our desktop. Wouldn't it be nice to travel to any other computer and, magically, have your personal Desktop (complete with your wallpaper, shortcuts, and your very own Outlook) appear on that computer? PocketLogin does this and more. Not only can you have all your Desktop files, but you can even have your own familiar Desktop image move with you, by simply plugging in myhandPC and logging in to your computer Desktop!

Access Your Outlook Email from Different Computers

If you're a Microsoft Outlook user, you'll love PocketLogin's capability of letting you access your Outlook email from any other computer. When you log in to PocketLogin, you not only can access your new email, but you can also bring along your stored email for reference! As opposed to Web-based mail, you store all your email on myhandPC, so you can even work on correspondences when you're not connected to the Internet. When you return to your main computer, all your email changes—new email, replies, etc., are automatically synchronized with your computer's Outlook. And remember: when you're done working on your "host" computer and remove myhandPC, your email (and all your other work) travels with you, safely stored in myhandPC—none of your information is left behind for others to see!

Use Your Internet Explorer Favorites on Any Computer

Have you ever borrowed someone's computer to access the Internet? Maybe you need to check your bank account online, or check the shipping status of an order you placed. But what's the URL? Many people take advantage of Favorites, shortcuts in your browser that let you instantly jump to the correct Web site. But if you're on another computer, you can't access the Favorites you left behind on your own computer. Until now. The solution is PocketLogin. Once you plug myhandPC into another computer, all your own Favorites appear in Microsoft Explorer! So go ahead: be efficient, and get to your favorite Web sites quick and easy!

Use Different Windows Systems and Different Versions of Outlook

PocketLogin seamlessly works between different versions of Microsoft Windows, and even lets you use your Outlook items on machines running Outlook 2000 or Outlook 2002. All you have to do is plug in myhandPC and start working! Even if your home environment is running Windows98 with Outlook 2000, and your workplace has Windows XP with Outlook 2002, you'll have an easy time sharing files between the systems. All thanks to myhandPC and PocketLogin!

Stay On Top With the Latest Software Upgrades
